Reviews

It is great and fantastic. I actually have read and so i am certain that i am going to going to go through once again yet again in the future. I realized this ebook from my dad and i encouraged this book to find out.

Draft Special Publication 800-103 An Ontology of Identity Credentials program cards) to requirements comparable to secondary identity credentials (many employee badges). Tertiary identity cards are rarely multipurpose, and often include no biometric information. Their most common characteristic is an organization-specific unique number. These credentials have a specific lifetime to indicate transient association e. g. visa for a country, travel club membership). 2. 5 Owners of Identity Credentials Identity credentials are often owned by the agency or organization that issued them, not by the person to whom they have been issued. By retaining ownership of a credential, an issuing organization has the right to set conditions on use and to revoke the credential. Whether the issuing organization can take possession of a revoked credential is another issue. If there is an online system to check the validity or status of credentials, or a list of revoked credentials, that system can be used to check the status of a credential. For example, a state may revoke a driver license because the holder has accumulated too many points, or if he has been convicted of certain types of driving offenses. In states that have mandatory car insurance laws, the owner of a car that is uninsured may be required to turn in the license plates for the car. In either case, the owner of the car or the holder of the license may decline to surrender either credential. However, if the driver is stopped for a traffic stop, police may check an online system...
